Business Intelligence

Summit Intelligence provides network marketing and direct selling companies with business intelligence enhancements, providing fast and easy access to vital corporate data from their Summit V databases. Its graphical reporting tool empowers you to make accurate decisions. You can access its warehouse of information through simple queries, anytime. With key statistics on command, you'll always know what's going on in your area and can better predict the future.

With Summit Intelligence, your executives and managers are empowered to make informed decisions, every time. Charts and graphs are graphical and easy to create. Plus, if you don't know where a particular bit of information is in your system, Summit Intelligence can find it for you with a few mouse clicks. This powerful option saves you valuable time while delivering business-critical information to you.

Analysis Tool

Integrating the leader in network marketing software with the leader in Business Intelligence software, Jenkon and Cognos provide you with the comprehensive coverage needed to derive maximum value from your corporate information. You have new options to explore summary-level information to identify trends and patterns, perform sophisticated analysis to develop forecasting and set business models, and maintain access to the underlying detailed information which explains and supports the trends and analysis. Summit Intelligence comes with a robust catalog of reports and views. Modifications and/or additions to the library are done with ease.

Get Started Immediately with Predefined Structures

Summit Intelligence comes loaded with predefined data marts from the Summit V database along with ready-to-use reporting and analysis solutions. With easy point-and-click capability, employees at all levels of your company can easily report on their areas of responsibility, understand the key business drivers, and improve the way it is managed. With Summit Intelligence, users can service their own needs by creating, accessing, and distributing reports within an infrastructure that is easily managed and maintained by your IT staff. This new approach to reporting virtually eliminates the backlog of reporting requests to your IT staff.

Summit V®

The ideal enterprise solution for the direct selling industry

Analyze recruitment trends by a variety of measures such as geographical region and timeframe.

Measure the growth of your product line across time and category.

Consistent, Useful Reports

Summit Intelligence's reporting solution includes the ability to build subject-specific data marts from your Summit V transactional database as well as from any in-house accounting, manufacturing, manifesting or other systems. Optimized for reporting, these data marts leverage existing data assets and ensure that all users have access to consistent information.

Intuitive Interface

Summit Intelligence's catalogs, which organize and present all the data, provide views of the Summit V database that reflects the way your employees want to see it—not the way the transactional databases are structured. This intuitive interface offers every user smooth data navigation and easy report creation. Organizing and refining ad hoc and standard report results has never been more straightforward. Distributing reports is simple as well; any Impromptu report can be published to HTML and viewed from a browser on any desktop in the organization.
